ABSTRACT

Intended for parents, this illustrated booklet shares ways of helping children read that parents and teachers around the United States have found to work best. It focuses on helping parents create a supportive, pressure-free environment where reading at home is an enjoyable time, and where books are valued and reading is recognized as a vital skill. The booklet's sections discuss: (1) When do children learn to read? (2) How can I help? (3) When your children get stuck; (4) What about mistakes? (5) Television; (6) Listening to children read; (7) Making it fun; (8) Choosing books; (9) Reading aloud; (10) How to tackle tough words; (11) Finding time; and (12) How children learn. (SR)
